

Chavala joined Rosenblum & Bianco, LLP in 2023 and specializes in landlord and tenant cases throughout all five New York Civil Court boroughs. With a diverse background in marketing, international public relations, communications, performing arts and the non-profit sector, Chavala brings a fresh perspective and an exemplary skillset to the firm.

Following an extensive career in the performing arts, Chavala pursued her Bachelor of Communication in Public Relations from Mount Royal University in Calgary, Alberta. Later, she went on to pursue her studies in law from Bond University in Gold Coast, Australia.

During her studies, Chavala was selected as one of four students to represent her university at the International Criminal Court Moot Team Competition held in The Hague. Additionally, she served as a member at the Law Institute of Victoria's Later Lawyers Committee, where she received an honorary award for outstanding contribution and excellence.

In 2020, Chavala graduated with distinction and went on to successfully pass the Uniform Bar Exam, and was admitted to the New York State Bar in 2022. Chavala worked for Jackson Walkden-Brown of Artists Only Agency prior to joining Rosenblum & Bianco, LLP.

With her extensive skillset, dedication to excellence and a genuine commitment to making a difference in her field, Chavala is committed to pursuing her legal career while bringing new ideas to every challenge she encounters.
